Alaska Summer Program

Home / Academics / Programs / Alaska Law Campus / Alaska Summer Program

Overview

The Alaska Summer Program provides law students with an introduction to Alaska's unique and compelling legal issues.

- Earn four law school credits
- Gain significant legal experience by completing an externship or internship
- Spend the summer exploring the state's natural beauty

Curriculum

As a program participant, you will learn about important legal, social and environmental issues impacting the state. Courses, which alternate from year to year, cover topics such as:

- Alaska's constitution
- Alaska Native Corporations
- Environmental law and natural resources

SUMMER 2019 COURSE

Law, Policy, and Practice in Alaska's Leading Industries

Professor TBA / 4 Credits

The Alaska summer course examines laws that relate specifically to Alaska, Alaska Natives, and the environment. The specific course offering alternates between years to provide opportunities for students to take the summer course during both their 1L and 2L summers.

The course typically examines the laws governing Alaska Natives combined with Environmental, Climate Change, or Natural Resources law. The course will bring together the history of Alaska and how many of the issues at play before Statehood remain a common and integral thread through to the present day.

Esteemed members from the Alaska legal community will also be invited as guests to several classes so that students have an opportunity to meet and interact with practitioners on the ground in Alaska.

APPLY NOW

Alaska Summer Program
Duis aute irure dolor in reprehenderit in voluptate velit esse cillum dolore eu fugiat nulla pariatur.

Home / Academics / Programs / Alaska Law Campus / Alaska Summer Program

Overview

The Alaska Summer Program provides law students with an introduction to Alaska's unique and compelling legal issues.

- Earn four law school credits
- Gain significant legal experience by completing an externship or internship
- Spend the summer exploring the state's natural beauty

Curriculum

As a program participant, you will learn about important legal, social and environmental issues impacting the state. Courses, which alternate from year to year, cover topics such as:

- Alaska's constitution
- Alaska Native Corporations
- Environmental law and natural resources

Summer 2019 Course

Law, Policy, and Practice in Alaska's Leading Industries

Professor TBA / 4 Credits

The Alaska summer course examines laws that relate specifically to Alaska, Alaska Natives, and the environment. The specific course offering alternates between years to provide opportunities for students to take the summer course during both their 1L and 2L summers.

The course typically examines the laws governing Alaska Natives combined with Environmental, Climate Change, or Natural Resources law. The course will bring together the history of Alaska and how many of the issues at play before Statehood remain a common and integral thread through to the present day.

Esteemed members from the Alaska legal community will also be invited as guests to several classes so that students have an opportunity to meet and interact with practitioners on the ground in Alaska.

Eligibility

To participate, you must meet the following criteria:

- Be a student in good standing at any ABA-accredited law school
- Have completed at least your first year of law school

Admissions Procedure

Priority deadline: January 1, 2019

Students are accepted on a rolling basis, so please consider applying as early as possible after application opens on Oct. 1, 2018.

Here is what you will need to submit:

- Completed application
- Resume
- Transcript
- $300 deposit (non-refundable), payable to Seattle University School of Law
- For visiting students:
We also require a letter from your law school attesting to your good standing. Visit Transfer/Visiting Students for more information.

Biography

Robert S. Chang is a Professor of Law and Executive Director of the Fred T. Korematsu Center for Law and Equality. He has also previously served as Associate Dean for Research and Faculty Development. He joined the School of Law from Loyola Law School in Los Angeles, where he was Professor of Law and J. Rex Dibble Fellow. A graduate of Princeton and Duke Universities, he writes primarily in the area of race and interethnic relations. He is the author of "Disoriented: Asian Americans, Law and the Nation-State" (NYU Press 1999), co-editor of "Minority Relations: Intergroup Conflict and Cooperation" (University Press of Mississippi 2007), and more than 50 articles, essays, and chapters published in leading law reviews and books on Critical Race Theory, LatCrit Theory, and Asian American Legal Studies. He is currently working on two books, one on the political and legal struggle over Mexican American Studies in Arizona (with Nolan Cabral), the other, The United States Supreme Court and White Social Dominance (with Carlton Waterhouse, Michalyn Steele, and Tanya Hernandez, under contract with Cambridge University Press).

He has received numerous recognitions for his scholarship and service. He was the 2009 co-recipient of the Clyde Ferguson Award, given by the Minority Groups Section of the Association of American Law Schools, which is granted to an outstanding law teacher who in the course of his or her career has achieved excellence in the areas of public service, teaching and scholarship. He became an elected member of the American Law Institute in 2012, and he was the co-recipient of the 2014 Charles A. Goldmark Distinguished Service Award from the Legal Foundation of Washington for his leadership role in a statewide task force on race and the criminal justice system. The Society of American Law Teachers recognized him in 2018 with the M. Shanara Gilbert Human Rights Award for his work as co-counsel in taking to trial successfully a constitutional challenge to the enactment and enforcement of a facially neutral law that was used to terminate the Mexican American Studies Program at the Tucson Unified School District.

For several years, he has been serving as co-counsel in two cases in Alaska challenging the involuntary psychiatric hospitalization and forced psychotropic medication of Native foster children. Students from his Civil Rights Clinic have assisted on these and other cases.
